

Camp is Everywhere

By: Cassidy Kaye (Echo Inn, 2008)

Summer time memories from Echo Hill bring comfort and smiles to lots of campers during the challenges of the school year. Cassidy submitted this beautiful reflection to the Writer's Corner on February 8, 2009.

Times are hard on the kids right now with homework, school applications and well just everything. We should all realize that camp is everywhere---that is the wonderful effect that Echo Hill has on kids.

You can be walking your dog and come across a memory of not waking up for an early morning horseback ride. Then Chuck comes to the cabin and wakes you and your counselors so you won't miss the ride!

You can be at school and start to day dream about an awesome mud fight followed by one big wonderful jump into the lake.

Echo Hill is something special and different for everyone. Let us all join hands in spirit and imagine passing a friendship squeeze around the circle. Like we are still at the most heavenly, heartwarming, family filled home.

Let us remember that Echo Hill is all around us. Echo Hill is truly when we all join hands in that little green valley...with green trees around us, and blue skies above.
